

“Talking to Teens about Internet Threats”

Presenter: David Buckley
CCIT IT Security, Clemson University

Thursday January 28, 2010
6 PM – 8 PM

Disciples Fellowship Baptist Church
105 Crestfield Road, Greenville, SC 29605
Rev. Harold Moon, Pastor

Audience: The seminar is geared toward parents, teachers, community leaders, and others who want to be informed themselves about the current threats and how they can help protect the youth in their communities.

Description: This seminar will discuss the real and growing threats with new technologies, and social networks such as FaceBook™, Twitter™, MySpace™, and other services. Topics will include common social networking services and practices, What is “Sexting” & how to talk youth about its dangers, the latest threats to youth, and simple measures you can take to reduce the risk to your youth when using these services.

David Buckley is the Director of Security Infrastructure for the campus IT Security group at Clemson University with extensive expertise on countering IT Threats. David has a passion for protecting today's youth and uses his expertise in security to speak regularly to youth groups and parents about youth protecting themselves properly from Internet dangers.

We will have other community leaders in the audience for a Question & Answer session afterwards.

Please contact Bobby Clark at (864) 656-0950 or email projectalpha@gglapa.org if you have any questions about the event.

Refreshments will be provided at the event

We are asking large groups who wish to attend to send an approximate number that will attend by Jan 26th.

Presented by
Gamma Gamma Lambda Chapter of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Inc.
www.gglapa.org